

ISABEL NIXON KLEIN

Isabel Nixon Klein is a student filmmaker and performer in Olympia, WA. Starting out in a small community theater out in Morton, WA where the rain leaked onto the stage is where Isabel got her love for the performing and visual arts. Isabel has now acted in over 50 live theater productions and been on the cast or crew of a dozen community film productions. Some of the recent short films Isabel was in include: Blocked (2021), Blind Duet (2022), DRIPS (2023) and SPEC (2024). Isabel's experience is not limited to being in front of the camera or in the spotlight, she has worn many hats and participated in productions as a director, producer, writer, editor, and art director. Isabel got her start in filmmaking at a young age, messing around with a camcorder to try and find out how the magic happens and started consistently making short films when her team won the Rainier Independent Film Festival's student competition for two years in 2017 and 2019 respectively. Her most recent short film The Perfect Night (2024), in collaboration with OlyFilm and TCMedia, featured a cast and crew of 35+ local filmmakers and actors and premiered at the Capitol Theater in downtown Olympia.
